In the Garden 7

Such a blessing was the rain we had; for everyone's garden and our farmers....The wind though was another story!....It took a little bit of time to clean and tidy up the garden to look lovely again but the sweet smell of rain made everything worth it.

It's a pleasure to pick the different foods as they ripen and to enjoy them raw or cooked.... Give everything another feed of your favourite fertilizer to give them that extra boost ready for the coming summer. They will love you for it! To help save on your water bill, refresh the mulch.

Cheers,
Wendy Garvie

Port Wakefield Primary School News

Walk Around Australia

At the beginning of the year, students and staff started the bold challenge of Walking Around Australia. Each Friday, staff and students spend approximately 25 minutes walking or running laps of the oval. At the completion of each lap, students are given a ticket. Students put the tickets in a box and after we have completed the walk some of the Upper Primary students calculate how far we have walked. In the Front Office, we have a large map of Australia, where we are plotting our journey. So far, we have walked 1240km. We started at Port Wakefield, walked around the Yorke Peninsula and have made it to Colton on the West Coast of South Australia, heading towards Perth. For approximately 40 students, this has been a huge effort, when you take into consideration we had a number of weeks where there were less than 10 students at school due to Covid19. We start walking at 10:30am and would love our parents and families to join and help us on our journey to walk around Australia.

Nature Play in The Junior Primary

Over the last 3 weeks of this term we have been experimenting with Nature play. There is no better space for kids to learn than the outdoors. It provides opportunities for kids to use their imagination, build resilience, team work skills, initiative and creativity all through play driven by them. During these sessions I have been placing different things around the school yard and without specific instruction on how to play or what to play the students have been engaging in some fantastic creative play! I have been very impressed with how excited and self-driven the class has been during our nature play sessions. I even remembered to take some snaps of them busy in play.

Great Moments in Australian History

Back in 1932, farmers in WA's Wheatbelt had a problem: A migrating horde of 20,000 emus had figured out their crops were delicious. Most of the farmers were military veterans, and they asked Defence Minister George Pearce for a favour. Could the government send some soldiers with machine guns to show the birds who's boss?

Pearce agreed they would be great target practice. Major G.P.W. Meredith and the Seventh Heavy Battery of the Royal Australian Artillery soon arrived with two Lewis machine guns, 10,000 rounds of ammo, and orders to make it rain feathers. A cinematographer even tagged along to film what would surely be a glorious triumph.

But the emus proved a formidable foe. In a week of chasing them across the countryside, the soldiers fired 2,500 rounds but only managed to kill about 200 birds. It turned out the emus would just scatter when the shooting started and they were too fast to chase down in a truck. And according to Major Meredith, the beasts were pretty much bullet-proof anyway. "If we had a military division with the bullet-carrying capacity of these birds, it would face any army in the world," he marvelled. "They can face machine guns with the invulnerability of tanks."

Following ruthless mockery by the media, the army withdrew from the Emu War in defeat. At least, as Meredith noted in his report, they suffered no casualties.
