In the Garden 9

It is Christmas and a wonderful time of year, a time for Families and Friends...
Have you thought of a gift for a friend or family member whose eyesight has dimmed? A suggestion is a perfumed flower they remember, or choose an old favourite that will bring so much pleasure each season... The beauty too is most plants may be grown in a pot...A few suggestions are Roses, Sweet Pea, Wallflowers, Jasmine, Honeysuckle, Daphne... Watering and mulching are the best allies in the heat, along with a light dose of fertilizer.

Merry Christmas to All... Enjoy whatever you do and be safe.

Cheers,
Wendy Garvie

UNITING CHURCH NEWS

We regret to advise that there will be no Port Wakefield Community Carols organized by the Uniting Church this year. However, we invite the community to join with us at the Church (and surrounds, if needed) for our traditional Christmas Eve Service at 8pm on Thursday, 24th December. COVID-Safe rules will be observed and no supper.

During the service, there will be an opportunity to donate to the Christmas Bowl and there will be a time to bring forward socks and toothbrushes for Uniting Country, Kadina to help families on Yorke Peninsula, Port Wakefield & Balaklava in 2021.

We hope to see you on the 24th as we celebrate the birth of Jesus and assure you that we have already started planning for the 2021 Community Carols.

Mental health gap found in first round

Mental health services need to be improved in the Wakefield Council area, according to local health professionals.

The feedback emerged from a recent survey of health sector employees conducted by Wakefield Regional Council, which is using the data to form its new Local Health and Wellbeing Plan.

Following the health sector survey, WRC is now asking the wider community for its thoughts through a follow up questionnaire, available on council's website – wrc.sa.gov.au.

The public questionnaire will be used to gauge how people feel about the health and wellbeing offerings in Wakefield, and what barriers exist that prevent people from accessing these services.

The results from the survey will guide the development of the overall plan, which will highlight key actions for council to deliver over the next five years.

The survey is open until December 14, 2020.

Great Moments in Australian History

During World War One, Australia was divided by a bitter debate over whether to introduce conscription. A first plebiscite had been defeated, but Prime Minister Billy Hughes was determined to hold another one and get the "Yes" vote he wanted.

On November 29, 1917, Hughes arrived at Warwick train station in Queensland to give a speech on the subject. He was only halfway through when an egg came flying from the crowd, hit his top hat, and knocked it right off his head. An anti-conscription activist named "Paddy" Brosnan was responsible.

Hughes apparently reached for his revolver but had left it on the train that day, which spared Australians the awkwardness of their prime minister shooting a guy. Instead, he ordered local cop Sergeant Henry Kenny to arrest Brosnan. But Kenny refused. He'd sworn to enforce Queensland's laws, he explained, and someone egging the PM seemed like a Commonwealth problem to him. Brosnan walked away a free man.

Hughes was so upset by the incident that he created the Commonwealth Police, a new agency which became the Australian Federal Police of today. And that's how Australia got its national police force: A prime minister who really wanted to draft people, and a cop who decided it was okay to peg an egg at him in Queensland.
